This Cow is a Wonder

Some cows may give better milk, but no cow in the world gives so much of it as Josephine, an eight-year-old Holstein-Friesian, the Queen of the herd of the Missouri State College of Agriculture. Just now Josephine is undergoing a test to determine how much milk she will give in a year. Having already broken all the other lacteal records, it is a pretty safe bet that Josephine will establish a clear title to the heavyweight milk producing championship and hold it safe for some time.

Colanthe fourth Johanna, owned in Rosedale, Wis., used to be the prize cow, but Josephine has beaten every one of her records. In the first six months of the present test Josephine produced 16,831 pounds of milk, against 15,541 pounds for Colanthe. In one day Josephine produced 110.2 pounds of milk, against Colanthe's 100 in one month Josephine produced 2,933 pounds, against the Wisconsin cow's 2,781 and she has beaten the Wisconsin cow's averages for two, three, four, five and six months.

The average farmer is satisfied if his cows give 10 quarts of milk a day, but Josephine gives enough to fill 54 quart bottles. Giving the average person two thirds of a pint of milk a day, she could supply a hotel with 165 boarders. The butter from her milk would be enough to supply 49 boarders three times a day. Naturally with such a high production the milk given by Josephine is inferior to that given by the average dairy cow, although it meets and exceeds the legal requirements of butter fat. It is estimated that her milk will produce a revenue of $1,200 to $1,500 a year.

And yet with all these honors Josephine is quite a modest cow. She has hundreds of visitors every week, but fame has not turned her head nor vitiated her milk. Naturally she has everything that the bovine heart desires so far as a mere human can understand. When she is not grazing on the broad lawn that surrounds the college of agriculture at Columbia, Mo., she is kept in a stall—perhaps room would be better—which is furnished as befits her rank as Queen. Two or three inches of the softest sawdust cover the floor on which she lies while contentedly chewing her cud. An electric fan in one corner keeps cool breezes flowing over her and nothing on the win lows keep the flies out.

Every owner of the 30 gallon or so of water that she drinks every day is warmed to a temperature of 75 degrees, and the dry feed that she gets is the choicest. Josephine rises each morning at 4:30 o'clock for her bath and at 5 o'clock she breakfasts on various grains, bran, corn, chop, ground oats, linseed meal or cotton, seed meal, mixed with beet pulp. She is milked while she eats. At 10:30 o'clock she is given another meal and is milked again and the process is repeated at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 10 o'clock at night. Between the second and third milkings she is allowed to exercise on the lawn. Never under any circumstances is she allowed to become excited and she is never struck. I. T. Van Note, the college dairyman, her "lady in waiting," he might be called, is the only person who ever touches her.—Technical World.

JAR FROM BLASTING KILLS CHICKS IN SHELL

For the last few weeks the people living in close vicinity to Newport have found it difficult to secure successful hatching of little chicks. Although the weather has been ideal for three or four weeks, very little success has been noted and the chicken raisers have been at a loss to understand the reason. The eggs when taken from the nest would show that the chick had died within the shell.

It has developed that much of the trouble has been occasioned by the heavy blasting on the stone quarry at the end of the Newport bridge, the heavy jar having killed the chicks before they were hatched.

We have been selling Monuments and Tombstones in Newport and surrounding country for several years. We have always sold them in best grades and at prices as low as any competitor. But, we sold them through agents and as some people know, a tombstone agent gets from 20 to 25 per cent.

Since we have made a change, we find it better to give the customer or purchaser the 20 per cent thereby saving him one-fifth the price and selling him direct that he is pleased better and we get more business.

This is our own idea and it is taking with the people. We are selling more than ever before, the people are buying cheaper and every one is pleased.
